NEBRASKA SPELLS "SPORTSMANSHIP"

As a former coach of the Huskers and as athletic director at UNL, it is a great honor for me to welcome you to the 100th season of Nebraska football.

Throughout the first century, Husker fans have been known nation-wide for their dedication to the sport, loyalty to the Huskers and genuine sportsmanship both at home and away games.

The University of Nebraska urges all Husker fans to continue this fine tradition of sportsmanship by extending courtesy to the visiting teams and officials.

All of us on the Cornhusker staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support as we celebrate the 100th anniversary of football.

All of us on the Husker Staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support and sportsmanship as we celebrate the 100th anniversary of football.

Yours for Nebraska.

Nebraska vs. No. Illinois

The Scouting Report

by Tom Simons

TODAY: Nebraska opens its 100th season of college football, taking on the Northern Illinois University Huskies. The Cornhuskers go into the season with an NCAA-record 27 consecutive winning seasons under their belts, and are the owners of an all-time record of 625 wins, the sixth-highest victory total in major-college football, against 279 wins and 39 ties. Today's game will also mark Nebraska's 162nd consecutive home sellout, a continuing NCAA record.

Husker Salute . . .

A salute to the past 100 years of Nebraska football. On page 139 of each game program, you will find a collection of memories contributed by past NU football players, such as the one below by Jerry Jacupke . . .

SOME THINGS NEVER CHANGE—
Jerry Jacupke (Lineman, 1943, 46-47)
“(A) vivid memory is the first time into the stadium in 1943 as a 17-year-old. Slapping the horse shoe and then seeing 15,000-18,000 cheering fans. The thrill was just as great as today's 76,000 I'm sure.” Jacupke and his wife, Donna, reside in Hastings, Neb.

THE OPENER: The Huskers are 68-26-5 in season-opening games, including 10-0 win over the Omaha YMCA in the inaugural 1890 season and a 23-14 win over Texas A&M in last year's Kickoff Classic. Nebraska has won three-straight season-openers since a 17-13 loss to Florida State to start the 1985 campaign. In home openers, NU is 76-17-5, including a 49-14-3 mark in Memorial Stadium home openers. The Huskers won last year's home opener, 63-13, over Utah State, and have won their last three home openers since that 1985 loss to Florida State.

THE COACHES: Nebraska's Tom Osborne (Hastings, 1959) heads into his 17th season as the Huskers' head coach and as the nation's winningest active coach, owning a 158-36-2 record for an .811 winning percentage. Each of Osborne's first 16 teams won at least nine games, went to a bowl game and finished in a wire-service top 10. The Huskies' Jerry Pettibone (Oklahoma, 1963) has a 19-25-1 record after NIU's season opening win last Saturday against Fullerton State at DeKalb (26-17). Now in his fifth season with the Huskies, Pettibone served as recruiting coordinator for Osborne and Nebraska from 1979-81, then went on to a three-year stint as an assistant coach for Jackie Sherrill at Texas A&M. Pettibone is the second Osborne assistant to later face the Husker mentor as a head coach, joining former Washington State and Missouri Coach Warren Powers. Pettibone's defensive coordinator, by the way, is former Husker (1971-74) Tim McGuire.

THE SERIES: It's the first-ever meeting between Nebraska and Northern Illinois, an NCAA Division I-A independent.

ABOUT THE HUSKIES: Northern Illinois returns 43 of 58 lettermen, including eight offensive and seven defensive starters, from a team which finished 7-4-0 in 1988, and posted the school's first-ever win over a Big Ten team, 19-17 at Wisconsin. The Huskies run the only wishbone offense the Huskers will see this season, and it's led by sophomore fullback Adam Dach, who rushed for 906 yards as a redshirt freshman last year. Defensively, NIU is led by senior inside linebacker Ron Delisi, a Street & Smith pre-season All-American, who recorded 171 total tackles in 1988, the fifth-highest total in Division I-A.

BROTHERS VS. BROTHERS: If Chuck and Nancy Caliendo of Brookfield, Wis., and Frank and Mary Kurtz of Omaha are rooting for a scoreless tie this afternoon, it's understandable as each couple has a son playing defense for each team. The Calien-dos, in fact, have twin sons who are returning starters for their respective teams—Chris, an inside linebacker for the Huskers, and Cary, a defensive end for the Huskies who is coming off arthroscopic knee surgery performed in July. The Kurtzes have one son, Scott, who's a junior inside linebacker for Nebraska, and a younger son, Steve, a redshirt freshman inside linebacker for Northern Illinois.

RATINGS GAME: In the wire service pre-season polls, released prior to last weekend's games, Nebraska was No. 2 in the United Press International poll and No. 3 in Associated Press. It would mark the third-straight season in which the Huskers have gone into the opener ranked second in one of the wire-service polls—provided, of course that last week's games caused no shake-ups in the rankings. Today's game also marks the Huskers' 46th-consecutive game in which they've been ranked in the AP top 10.

First Walter Camp All-America Team Marks 100th Anniversary

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—This year marks the 100th Anniversary of the first college football All-America team selected by the renowned Walter Camp, universally recognized as "The Father of American Football."

Camp's first All-America team in 1889 was composed entirely of Ivy League players, including the immortal Amos Alonzo Stagg and the grandnephew and namesake of Edgar Allan Poe. It was Camp to whom a young Notre Dame student wrote around the turn of the century asking for guidance in starting a football team.

To commemorate the centennial of Camp's first All-America team, and to focus national attention on the many innovative contributions he made to the game of football, the Walter Camp Football Foundation of New Haven is planning a special program to honor the 1889 Walter Camp All-America team. The Walter Camp Foundation carries on the tradition initiated by Camp and annually honors an All-America team chosen by college football coaches and sports information directors.

"The celebration of this milestone is of national significance for all college football fans," says Ernie Williams who is president of the Foundation. "No other college football All-America team has the mystique and legendary scope of the Walter Camp team. We are very excited about this anniversary and urge all colleges to join us in this celebration."

The celebration will be held in New Haven, home of Yale University, Camp's alma mater where he was an outstanding athlete, a brilliant coach (67-2-0 from 1888 to 1892), and an extraordinary innovator whose genius changed forever the old English game of rugby into today's distinctly American game of football. Camp played in the first Yale-Harvard game of rugby in 1876. From then on, his was the fertile, inventive mind and guiding leadership that brought about the American style of football.

Among the many innovations credited to Camp are: replacing the rugby scrummage (scrum) with the line of scrimmage, adopting the system of a fixed number of downs and yards to gain, creating the position of quarterback, legalizing the forward pass, reducing the number of players from 15 to 11, and developing the close-order formation that led to the T-formation. By dividing the field of play into yardage segments he gave birth to the expression "gridiron."

Camp is regarded as not only the creator but also the savior of the game; when public reaction in 1906 to the brutality of football ("the flying wedge," crippling injuries and all-out brawling) threatened its future, Camp's rule changes persuaded Teddy Roosevelt to give the new sport a second chance. He became a charter member of the rules committee of the just-formed organization in 1906 that is known today as the NCAA.

"Jane Fonda probably never heard of Walter Camp," says Williams, "but he is considered to be the first aerobics instructor with his famous 'Daily Dozen' calisthenics for Yale students back in the 1880's."

The All-America team was personally picked by Camp from 1889 until his death in 1925, when famed sportswriter Grantland Rice took over the responsibility and continued the selection until 1948. Collier's magazine annually featured the Camp All-America teams throughout this period. From 1949 until 1966 Camp All-Americans became synonymous with consensus All-America teams being chosen by wire services and other organizations which emerged to rival the Camp selection.

The Walter Camp Football Foundation was established in 1967 by New Haven area residents who were determined to perpetuate Camp's name and his legacy to college football. The Foundation resumed the Camp All-America selection process that year and built the annual Walter Camp Weekend into one of the most prestigious and successful football events in the nation.

Besides recognizing each year's top offensive and defensive players, the Foundation honors a Player of the Year, Coach of the Year, Distinguished American, and Man of the Year. The newest award goes to an Alumnus of the Year, presented to a Camp All-American who has made significant contributions to society after his playing days.

"Just as important," says Williams, "the Walter Camp Weekend brings the All-Americans in touch with area youngsters, many of whom are in hospitals and whose eyes light up when they see these football stars." Support of local charities has long been a driving force of the Foundation; since its inception, the group has contributed over $350,000 to needy organizations.

"The first Walter Camp All-America team had players from just three universities—Yale, Harvard and Princeton," says Williams. "Football was a new game in 1889 and those selections reflected that situation. Year after year, as the game caught on with other schools, the All-American represented a wider and wider geographical spread. You can trace the history of college football through the Walter Camp teams. Our 1889 team will be the latest in that long line of great players."

Chancellor's Club

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln has a unique mission for higher education in the state. Since the founding of the University in 1869, it has been dedicated to providing excellent undergraduate educational opportunities, to offering a comprehensive graduate education program, to providing excellence in international programs, and to conducting research and outreach programs in a wide variety of academic areas.

Faculty at UNL have been at the forefront of research developments for many decades. During the past year the research mission was given even greater attention following the Governor's introduction of—and Legislative support for—the Nebraska Research Initiative. The initiative represents a five-year funding effort targeted specifically for certain research areas including biotechnology, engineering and computer science, materials science, water quality, and decision sciences. This greatly needed financial support, provided by the citizens of the state through their elected representatives, has been carefully invested in these research areas and used to recruit talented faculty, to support operating expenses, and to upgrade and maintain equipment.

Equally significant is the use of this solid financial base to attract additional external funding so that the important research which has begun can be carried on well into the future. During the first year of the initiative—which ended this summer—the Nebraska Unicameral provided $2.8 million for the targeted research areas. This sum was augmented by an impressive $2.91 million in external support, which more than doubled the investment made by taxpayers.

We at UNL are exceedingly proud of the success we've already had in using these funds to attract even more research dollars. Success, however, cannot be measured solely by the amount of money raised. The true value of university research can be measured by the contributions made to society. In that, Nebraskans may take great pride in the recent accomplishments made by UNL faculty. For example, researchers continue to lead the nation in agricultural discoveries. Their findings help develop more nutritious food products and also create agriculturally-based nonfood products, such as biodegradable plastics which protect the environment. Another example is the research into ethanol-based fuels which has proven they improve automotive performance, decrease pollution, and may eventually lessen our nation's economic dependence on imported oil. President Bush's recent visit to UNL's Engine Technology Center gave a richly deserved acknowledgement of Nebraska's leadership in alternative fuels research.

Such examples only partially illustrate the impact UNL researchers are having on a statewide, regional, and national basis. These individuals are contributing knowledge which enables us to enjoy healthier and more productive lifestyles, to make more informed business decisions, and to enhance our intellectual lives through increased artistic and literary understanding.

Funds provided through the Research Initiative have also allowed us to recruit some first-rate faculty members and will significantly enhance our ability to attract outstanding undergraduate and graduate students. These students will eventually emerge as the leaders of Nebraska—and the nation—in coming years.

None of these advances in the scientific, economic, and social realms would be possible without the support of the Governor, the Legislature, and the many friends of the University who continue to see the value of investing in higher education. Your continued support is very much needed, and greatly appreciated.

Bell Motivated for Banner Senior Season

By Jennifer Snyder

Chuck Maloft. What is so special about that name?

To senior wingback Richard Bell, the name Chuck Maloft motivates him to succeed both on the football field and in the classroom . . . especially in the classroom.

"Just before I left high school, there was this one teacher who taught economics and I flunked the class. He told me I was going to flunk before the year was over," said Bell.

"He told me 'Richard, I know you have a scholarship and all but you're not going to make it through college.' He then started running off all of these statistics about how many people drop out after the first year of college," Bell explained. "He told me I would be one of those statistics . . . one of those people who dropped out."

"Just the fact that this teacher, his name was Chuck Maloft, said I couldn't make it in college was enough for me to come to Nebraska and try. I had to prove him wrong."

That's not to say that Bell had an easy time adjusting to college life his first semester. "It's amazing that I have made it as far as I have. As I look back on my childhood, I remember a number of times that I would not even go to school because I was out working. School didn't interest me and I thought working was the best thing for me and my family."

"My first semester here, my grade point average was a 1.2 (on a 4.0 scale) and all I could think about was Chuck Maloft. I thought he was right about me," Bell said. "Coach Osborne pulled me into his office and he told me that I needed to get a 2.8 to pull me out of the hole or else they would get rid of me. I didn't think there would be any way I could get a 2.8 but I beared down and got the grades I needed. Ever since then, I have not been below a 2.0. I just had my best semester (a 3.10) and I did it on my own. It felt really good."

Bell is also a star performer for the Huskers. Last season he ranked fifth on the squad in all-purpose yards with 505. He had two catches for 48 yards in the Big Eight title-clinching win against Oklahoma, one of which, a 30-yard reception to the Sooner 11 in the first quarter, set up the only touchdown of the game. The honorable-mention All-Big Eight selection ended the season as the fourth leading receiver with nine catches for 177 yards.

Bell strives on encouragement and motivation to help make him a better person. Receivers coach Ron Brown only has positive things to say about him.

"Based on what I've seen the last two years, I think Richard Bell will do very well this year," said Brown. "He is a complete player and does everything well. I think his senior leadership to date has been excellent and I expect him to keep improving and have a great season. Richard Bell is one of the best all-around football players in the country."

On the football field, he finds motivation from split end Morgan Gregory.

"Morgan and I have the ultimate rivalry. We compete in everything we do," Bell explains. "If we both do it, we compete in it. If we were to run a marathon, we'd compete in it. If we play checkers, we compete. We both hate to lose. I think that is why we love to play each other because someone has to lose and that makes it a challenge."

Bell is the first to admit that Gregory is one up on him in the yardage game and it all come down to the Kansas State game last year. "We both had punt return touchdowns. His was 64 yards and mine was 55. Now, at the end of the year, when we totaled our yards to see who had the most, it would have been pretty close. Maybe a yard or so different but the race would have been tight. But at the Kansas State game my 55-yard punt return, for a touchdown, was called back. Morgan's was allowed and he ran away with the competition."

Little kids are also a sense of encouragement for Bell. In July, his wife Avis gave birth to their first child, Janaya. A speech communication major, he finds pleasure in being a strong role model for kids to look up to and would like to work with kids when he graduates.

"It's fun to watch kids grow up. It's fun to see the kids look up to me because I don't smoke or drink and I don't get into a lot of trouble. Kids get the wrong idea when they see an athlete drink or do drugs or whatever. My main objective is to make people happy because that makes me happy."

"As a person I don't think you could ask for a better example of a young man who has destroyed all the odds, overcome all the obstacles and who is a great role model for kids," said coach Brown. "Not only is he an outstanding football player but he is an excellent student and has very high character. He is what it is all about when you are looking for a student-athlete."

If only Chuck Maloft could see Richard Bell now. He would be proud.

TOM OSBORNE

Head Football Coach/Assistant Athletic Director

Husker Coach Continues as Winner and Leader

Tom Osborne heads into his 17th season as a head coach—all at Nebraska—this year ranked at the top in college football.

Osborne takes a remarkable 158-36-2 record into 1989, the 100th season of Nebraska football. That makes him No. 1 among the winningest active coaches in Division I-A of the NCAA.

While Dr. Tom has long held "legendary" status in Nebraska, his fame is spreading throughout the nation as he continues to build Big Eight powerhouses each fall. During the past 16 years, Osborne's teams all have finished in the Top 10 and all have gone a-bowling, while averaging 10 wins per season. No other coach in the 1980s can make that claim.

Since succeeding Hall of Fame coach Bob Devaney in 1973, Osborne has posted an .811 winning percentage.

During the past nine years, his teams have won the national rushing title five times, and have finished second once and third twice. In 1988, Osborne's team was first in rushing (382.3 yards/game), sixth in scoring (39.5 points/game), and seventh in total offense (477.9 yards/game).

With Tom at the helm, Nebraska has run its string of consecutive bowl bids to 20 and its Top-10 streak to 19, both current national records.

Adding even more luster to Osborne's coaching career is the fact that the Cornhuskers have made history by producing three consecutive Outland Trophy winners (Dave Rimington in 1981 and 1982 and Dean Steinkuhler in 1983) and two consecutive Lombardi winners (Rimington in 1982 and Steinkuhler in 1983), while also winning the 1983 Heisman Trophy (Mike Rozier).

During Tom's 16-year career, the Huskers have produced 34 All-America players and 28 Academic All-America players, as well as eight NCAA postgraduate scholarship winners and four National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete recipients. During his tenure, 119 Huskers have been drafted by NFL teams, 12 in the first round.

Only two Osborne-coached teams have finished lower than second in the Big Eight—the 1976 team, which tied for fourth but was only one game out of a first-ever three-way tie for first, and his 1986 10-2 team, which lost to Colorado and Oklahoma. His teams have won or shared in the conference title seven times in the past 13 years, including last season (1975, 1978, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984 and 1988).

Five times he has been named Big Eight coach of the year (1975, 1978, 1980, 1983 and 1988), and six times he has been named district coach of the year by the American Football Coaches Association and Kodak (1978, 1979, 1980, 1983, 1987 and 1988). In addition, in 1978 he was named Bobby Dodds national coach of the year by the Atlanta Quarterback Club and Delta Air Lines for his efforts toward the advancement of the higher and more notable aspects of college coaching. And in 1983 Football News named Osborne national coach of the year.

In 1982 he was the first recipient of the Distinguished Nebraskalander Award from the Nebraskaland Foundation, and in 1983 he was named national coach of the year by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Osborne, who graduated from Hastings College in 1959 before logging pro time with the Washington Redskins and San Francisco 49ers, joined Devaney as an assistant in 1962. In 1965 he received his Ph.D. in educational psychology, then chose football coaching as a career. He coached the Husker receivers and helped build the NU offense into one of the most potent in the nation during the 1970 and 1971 national championship years.

While Osborne was a newcomer to the head coaching ranks in 1973, he was no stranger to Nebraska football. Osborne was a member of Bob Devaney's incomparable staff for 11 years—the last six as a key organizer of a steamroller offense.

During his tenure on the Devaney staff,

Osborne headed the passing game strategy and coached the receivers. When Devaney announced his retirement from coaching in favor of full-time athletic director duties following the 1971 season, he named Osborne as his successor. Osborne served as assistant head coach and director of recruiting in Devaney's final campaign in 1972, then took the head coaching reins in 1973.

An outstanding high school athlete at Hastings (Neb.) High School in the mid-1950s, Osborne was named Nebraska prep athlete of the year. Passing up major-college offers, Osborne became a star quarterback and basketball player for Hastings College, where both his father and grandfather had matriculated. At Hastings he played both football and basketball for Coach Tom McLaughlin, who was elected to the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 1982. In 1959 Osborne was named state college athlete of the year—the first athlete in Nebraska history to win both the high school and the college honors.

In 1962 he secured a position as a graduate assistant on Bob Devaney's Husker staff. He served in that capacity until he obtained his master's degree in 1963. Continuing his dual role in education and football coaching, Osborne gained his doctorate in 1965 and, holding the academic rank of instructor of educational psychology at Teachers College, was a part-time coach.

Osborne, born Feb. 23, 1937, elected to pursue coaching full-time in 1967 and became the Huskers' receivers coach, a decision that NU fans have applauded since.

Married to the former Nancy Tederman, Osborne is the father of a son, Mike, and two daughters, Ann and Susie. Mike followed in his father's footsteps by playing football at Hastings College, where he was a quarterback. ■

Athletic Director BOB DEVANEY

Bob Devaney ranks as one of the finest football coaches in college history, after his colorful 16-year career at Wyoming and Nebraska, and now ranks as one of the nation's most outstanding athletic directors.

Devaney is in his 28th year of providing drive, leadership and pride in the Cornhusker athletic program. He arrived in 1962, charged with the mission of building a successful football program, and he succeeded far beyond anyone's expectations. During an 11-year stint as Husker football coach, Devaney's teams won 101, lost only 20 and tied two for a winning percentage of .829. His career mark of 136-30-7 (.806) ranked him as the winningest coach in the nation at the time of his retirement in 1973. Devaney's teams won eight Big Eight titles and two consecutive national championships during the 1962-72 span, with his teams going to nine bowl games. His teams twice won four consecutive Big Eight titles.

Devaney's 1971 team, which posted a 13-0 record and twice played for the national championship (beating Oklahoma, 35-31, in the "Game of the Century," and Alabama, 38-6, in the Orange Bowl), has been hailed as the best college team of all time. Devaney was inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame in 1981.

Since becoming athletic director in 1967, Devaney has brought the same success to the overall Husker athletic program that he brought to the football program. Under his leadership, Nebraska annually sets the pace in the Big Eight all-sports race with solid entries in all men's and women's sports.

Under Devaney's guidance, Memorial Stadium has been enlarged, artificial turf has been installed and replaced three times, a stadium office building was constructed, and sports facilities such as the Otto and Gladys Baumann Baseball Complex, Buck Beltzer Baseball Stadium, Ed Weir Track, a new track office building and the women's softball stadium have come into being.

It was Devaney's leadership, working in conjunction with the Nebraska Legislature, that resulted in the passage of a special cigarette tax to provide funds for a new athletic complex, the beautiful basketball arena, indoor track, swimming and other sports building, which opened on the State Fair Grounds in 1976. University of Nebraska Regents recognized Devaney's contributions to that four-and-a-half-acre structure by naming it the Bob Devaney Sports Center in 1978.

Devaney spearheaded a fund-raising drive to provide the University of Nebraska with a new Faculty-Student Recreation Center, as well as the Cook Pavilion indoor workout facility, completed in November 1987.

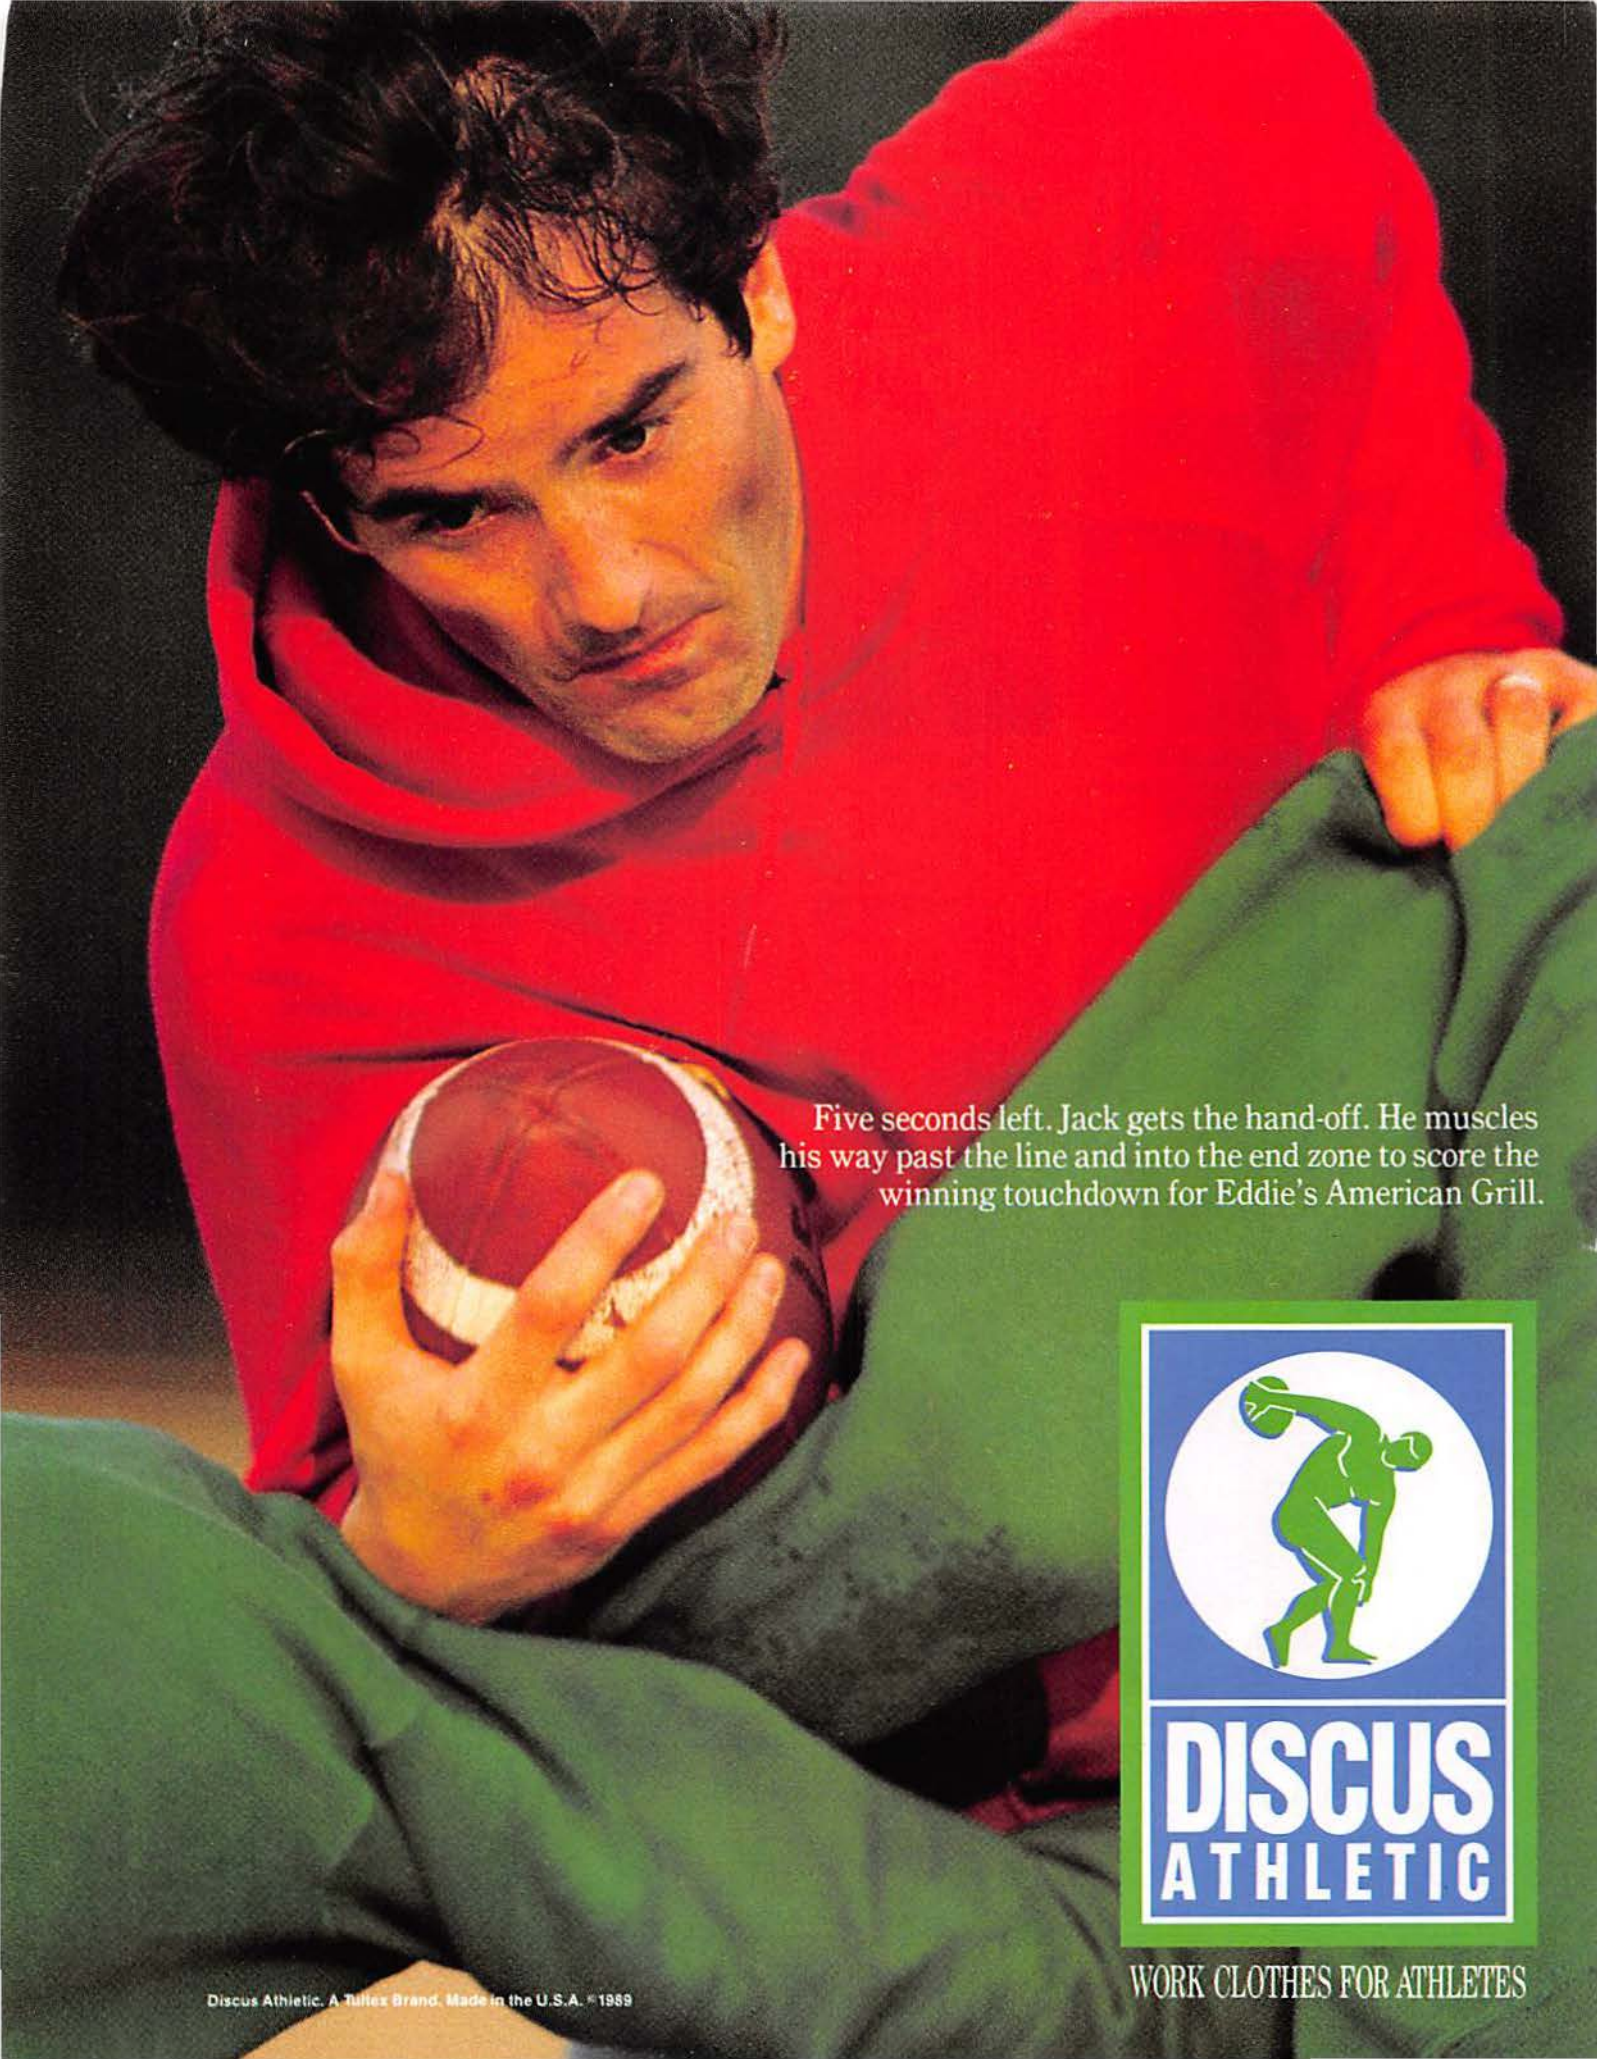

Devaney received many other honors during his coaching career. He was named Coach of the Year by the Walter Camp Foundation, the Football Writers of America, Football News and the Washington TD Club in 1971; and he was tabbed to coach in numerous all-star games, such as the Hula Bowl, Coaches All-American, Blue-Gray and East-West Shrine. He also coached the College All-Stars against the Dallas Cowboys in the 1972 Chicago game.

A graduate of Alma (Michigan) College in 1939, Devaney served as a high school coach at Big Beaver, Keego Harbor, Saginaw and Alpena in Michigan before joining Biggie Munn and Duffy Daugherty at Michigan State. In 1957 he became head coach at Wyoming, where his teams posted a 35-10-5 record.

Devaney is married to the former Phyllis Wiley. They have a son, Mike, and a daughter, Pat, both graduates of the University of Nebraska. Bob and Phyllis also have two grandchildren. ■

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

Innovation and Excellence for America's Future

Two years after acquiring statehood, Nebraska founded the University of Nebraska in Lincoln as both its land-grant institution and its state university. Since 1869 the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) has been a catalyst in Nebraska's development as an imaginative, industrious and ingenious state.

Today the partnership between Nebraska and its university is taking on new dimensions. UNL has redefined and expanded its traditional land-grant role to reflect Nebraska's need for new knowledge in a wide spectrum of rapidly advancing scientific, technological, agricultural and business-related areas.

As Nebraska's major research and most comprehensive undergraduate university, UNL serves as the primary source of new knowledge in the academic disciplines and provides education of the highest quality for future scientists and engineers, as well as for students in the liberal arts and professions. UNL researchers have achieved national stature for doing work in the fields of electro-optical measurements, mass spectrometry, biotechnology, biochemistry, climatology, atomic and solid-state physics, materials science, water quality, agricultural marketing and economics, communication disorders, computer science, political analysis, history and English, among others.

To meet the demands of scholarship and service, UNL has taken an interdisciplinary approach to complex research problems. In recent years the University has established research centers in the areas of productivity and entrepreneurship, franchise studies, engine technology, electro-optical measurements, biotechnology and biochemistry, food processing technology, Great Plains studies and agricultural product development, marketing and utilization.

Informational support for university teaching and research includes a library system with more than two million volumes, an on-campus network of main-frame and personal computers, and participation in MIDNET, a vital link to the National Science Foundation's super-computer network.

UNL's 1,100-member faculty is one of Nebraska's most vital resources. Nationally respected for their expertise and scholarship, UNL faculty bring to the classroom a commitment to providing the University's 25,000 undergraduate and graduate students with the intellectual skills and the breadth of knowledge they will require as community and professional leaders in this era of accelerated technological and social change.

As a result of a two-year study, UNL has initiated the Program for the Advancement of General Education. Undergraduate programs are being strengthened as curricula are refined to provide a common learning experience for UNL's students. Substantial attention is being focused on the development of skills that a citizen of the 21st century will require: the ability to communicate verbally and in writing, mathematical competency, computer literacy, facility with languages other than English, sound reasoning capabilities, and the ability to make decisions that are both knowledge- and value-based.

More than 150,000 alumni worldwide have graduated from UNL to become leaders in business, industry, education and the professions.

Over the years alumni such as authors Willa Cather and Mari Sandoz, legal educator Roscoe Pound, anthropologist and author Loren Eiseley, and scientists such as Nobel Prize-winning chemists George Beadle and Donald Cram, inventor Harold "Doc" Edgerton and computer pioneer Jay Forrester have enriched the University's tradition of leadership and scholarly excellence.

Quality instruction is emphasized in UNL's eight undergraduate colleges, in the Graduate School and in the professional graduate College of Law. The Colleges of Agriculture, Architecture, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Engineering and Technology, Home Economics and Journalism and the Teachers College offer more than 130 degree programs leading to career opportunities in the arts, the sciences, the humanities and the professions.

UNL receives more than $30 million annually in grants and contracts from outside sources for research, instruction, public service, administration and student aid.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln reaches thousands of citizens each year through programs conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Division of Continuing Studies. The Cooperative Extension Service provides all Nebraskans with information and assistance in agricultural and natural resources, home economics, family living, 4-H and youth development and community resource development. The Continuing Studies program offers an alternative to formal on-campus education with programs such as summer reading courses, evening classes, independent study by correspondence, telecourses and study tours.

The Lincoln campus is home to the nationally renowned Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery and Sculpture Garden, the University of Nebraska State Museum, the Christlieb Collection of Western Art and the University's championship Big Eight Conference men's and women's athletic teams.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is an imaginative leader in American education, setting ever higher standards for degrees of excellence. ■

THE HUSKERS THROUGH THE CENTURY

DECADE

N

It wasn't much, but it was the beginning. The year was 1890 and for many Nebraskans, it could well be the beginning of time. It was then that the University of Nebraska embarked into the world of collegiate athletics by fielding the school's first football team, thus laying the foundation for one of the great traditions in sports. A tradition that is stronger than ever 100 years later.

Though no official head coach is listed, it was University faculty member Dr. Langdon Frothingham and team captain Ebenezer E. Mockett who led the students to a 10-0 victory over the Omaha YMCA in the inaugural game on Thanksgiving Day, 1890. It wasn't until February of 1891 before they would play again, but the 18-0 win over Doane effectively ended the gridgers' first season unbeaten and unscored upon.

In its infancy, the Nebraska football program had as much difficulty finding a coach as it did finding suitable opponents. Season No. 2's four-game schedule saw

The 1890 football team was the first assembled.

NU win two of three from Doane while losing to Iowa under one-game coach T.U. Lyman. A year later, Omaha attorney J.S. Williams also had a one-game stint with the team before Frank Crawford took over as the first official head coach in 1893.

Almost concurrent with the birth of Nebraska football was the beginning of the rivalry with the team south of the border—the University of Kansas. It was in 1892 that the schools first squared off in what has become one of the oldest present-day rivalries in college football. While recent success has dictated NU dominance, it was Kansas who took the first meeting, 12-0 in Lincoln. A series with Missouri would follow shortly.

College football was far from the big business that it is today; instead, the heart of the team lay in the heart of the players who wanted to participate. Names are hard to come by and are hardly household memories, but without the men of the 1890s like J.A. Barkley, H.G. Cowgill, George Flippin (NU's first black player) and the Yont brothers, A.E. and J.G., and still others, the dream of Nebraska football may not be the reality that it is today. ■

A new century brought with it the second decade of football at the University of Nebraska. A decade that also laid the foundation for the winning tradition of today. It was the birth of "Cornhusker" football.

Early nicknames of Nebraska teams from the 1890s had included the Old Gold Knights, Antelopes and the ungla-morous and infamous Bug-eaters. Finding such terms hard to swallow, Lincoln sportswriter Cy Sherman took a liking to a nickname originally penned for neighboring Iowa. However Iowans seemed to prefer the Hawkeye label for their teams, so, seizing the opportunity, Sherman began the new century with a new nickname for the young program—the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

After going through eight coaches in the first 10 years, Walter C. "Bummy" Booth took the reins of the fledgling football program in 1900 and established the first measurable continuity and success that has since become the trademark of recent Husker history. With back-to-back unbeaten seasons in 1902 (9-0, unscored upon) and 1903 (10-0), the prairie gridgers put together a 24-game win streak, the longest in school history. Booth's .845 winning percentage in six years at the helm is second all-time at Nebraska.

It was the 1907 Huskers, the first under W. C. Cole, who would enjoy a season of milestones. During the 8-2 campaign, a 63-0 win over Denver was the program's 100th, coming just 17 years after the first. As a measure of Nebraska's early success, it was not until the 1941 season that the Cornhuskers would suffer loss No. 100, 52 years after the first snap. It was also Cole's first season that brought NU the first of its 35 conference titles, as the Huskers captured the first of two Missouri Valley crowns in his four-year stint.

Still, finding opponents for Nebraska was, at times, challenging. Among the teams falling victim in the first 100 wins were the Kirksville Osteopaths, Knox and the Lincoln Medics—not to be confused with the K.C. Medics, who hold a 2-1-1 series lead over NU. Research has indicated several games of the early era were actually considered exhibitions and practices, but nevertheless it was a chance to play. ■

The 1902 Huskers' 9-0 season was part of a 24-game win streak from 1901-04.

DECADE 3 1910-1919

Nebraska's famous "Scoring Explosion" attack of 1983 had nothing on the high-flying Huskers of the early 1910s. The Missouri Valley champion of 1910, Nebraska concluded the season by outscored opponents 182-0 in the last five games, including a 119-0 thrashing of the Haskell (Kan.) Indians in the season finale. It remains as the biggest margin of victory in school history.

The Huskers of old didn't let up much in the following year, defeating Kearney Normal, 117-0, and Kansas State, 59-0, in the opening games of 1911. In fact, in the first three years of the third decade, the Huskers outscored their opponents 781-106 as they won or shared the conference title all three seasons.

The 1912 season ended with five straight wins, the beginning of a 34-game unbeaten streak that extended into 1916. But 1912 had far-reaching ramifications beyond runaway victories and conference titles. The season ended with the beginning of one of the greatest rivalries in sports—the "Shootout" between Nebraska and Oklahoma. Nebraska claimed the initial victory with a hard-fought 13-9 win over the Sooners. It wasn't until seven years later that the two teams would meet again in a 7-7 tie. The stage for history had been set.

The high-scoring 1910 Huskers were Missouri Valley Conference champs.

Later in the decade, Nebraska would again reach the century mark in a 100-0 win over Nebraska Wesleyan. But as World War I began taking its toll on the country, NU was not immune, with several players hearing the duty call. The Huskers of 1918 suffered only the second losing season in 29 years, finishing 2-3-1. Opponents again were hard to come by as five regularly-scheduled games were cancelled while the Omaha Balloon School and Camp Dodge remained on the schedule. Nevertheless, the third decade of Nebraska football was the most successful prior to the Devaney-Osborne Era, which began in 1962. It also marked the beginning of another new tradition as Vic Halligan in 1914 and Guy Chamberlin in 1915 were named All-Americans, the first of 66 Huskers so honored through 1988. ■

The opening of the new 31,000-seat Memorial Stadium in 1923 upgraded the growing Nebraska program into national prominence during the 1920s. In the years since then, the home of the Huskers and their faithful has been at the heart of the Big Red tradition.

From Day One, home has been sweet. In 67 years within the friendly confines of Memorial Stadium, the Huskers are 247-96-13 for a winning percentage of .712. But it became obvious early on that there was no place like Nebraska's new home. Win No. 1 was a 24-0 shutout of archrival Oklahoma in the inaugural game, but it is win No. 2, three weeks later, that still echoes through the halls of history.

It was then that the legendary coach Knute Rockne brought his unbeaten Fighting Irish of Notre Dame into Memorial Stadium for the first time. For Nebraska, 1-1-2 going in, conquering the challenge presented by the invincible Irish seemed improbable. It was not, however, impossible. In fact, the Huskers were looking to make it two in a row over an unbeaten Notre Dame team after a 14-6 win in the 1922 season finale. History does have a way of repeating itself as it did on Nov. 10, 1923. In what remains today as one of the greatest wins in Husker history, NU handed the Irish their only loss of the season, 14-7. A year later Notre Dame and the Four Horsemen would get their revenge, 34-6, en route to the school's first national title. But the Huskers would get the last laugh in one of the great rivalries of the 1920s beating Notre Dame, 17-0, in 1925. The schools have met just three times since.

Overall, the Huskers roared through the early Twenties under four-year head coach Fred T. Dawson, who led NU to three straight Missouri Valley Conference titles, 1921-23. Though Dawson's '24 team failed in its quest for a fourth league title, it was then that the honors began rolling in for one of the greatest athletes ever to wear a Nebraska uniform. A letterman in 1923, tackle Ed Weir earned All-America honors in 1924 then again in 1925 to become the first two-time All-American in NU history and the only one until middle guard Wayne Meyland repeated the honor in 1966-67.

As it turned out, Nebraska would never again lay claim to the Missouri Valley title after 1924. Instead, a new league was created combining top teams from the Midwest into the Big Six Conference in 1928. The Huskers wasted little time in establishing supremacy in the new conference by winning the first two and eight of the first 10 team titles through 1937. ■

The high expectations that come hand in hand with a tradition of success can often times be unattainable. Cornhusker followers, friend or foe, have come to expect the best from the Nebraska program, which can be highly complimentary. But more impressive is the fact that the Huskers have delivered.

For the past 19 years Nebraska has landed a team in the top 10 in at least one major wire service poll. Right or wrong, it is the polls that have become the standard used to measure a team's stock. Recent history values the Huskers among the blue chippers, just as they were when the first Associated Press poll appeared in 1936.

It was Oct. 19, 1936, when the first AP poll appeared over the wires and, like they have so often since then, the Huskers, at 2-1, were among the elite group pulling in the No. 15 ranking. Undaunted by the pressure, NU went on to a 14-0 victory over unranked Oklahoma the following week.

Winning four of their last five, the Huskers found themselves at No. 9 in the final poll. A year later, Nebraska finished 6-1-2 and ranked 11th, then fell on hard times in 1938, losing four of their first five and finishing 3-5-1. It was only the third losing season in school history. Regrouped, NU ended the decade and the program's 50th year with a 13-7 win over the No. 14 Sooners, then grabbed the No. 18 spot after a 7-1-1 season in 1939.

But even before the advent of the polls, the Huskers had established themselves among the top teams of the 1930s. Under head coach D.X. Bible, who took over in 1929, NU won six Big Six Conference titles between 1931-37. It was an era in which Nebraska more than doubled its All-America production over the first four decades, as six Huskers earned national honors playing for Bible and later for "Biff" Jones. In 1937, center Charles Brock and tackle Fred Shirey became the first Huskers honored as All-Americans in the same season.

Prior to 1937, a large share of Nebraska players had gone on to play professional football but it wasn't until that year that NU would have a player selected in the first round of the National Football League draft. It happened in a big way, as not one but three players—Lloyd Cardwell, Sam Francis and Les McDonald—were top selections. Nebraska has duplicated the first round hat trick two other times, in 1972 and again in 1984. In all, more than 200 former Huskers have spent time playing pro football since the 1920s. ■

While the first 50 years enjoyed their share of success, the 1940 edition of the Nebraska football team entered the program's second half-century by introducing Husker fans to a new pastime. For the first time in history the Cornhuskers and their faithful went "bowling."

The 1940 Big Six Conference champions, the 8-2 Huskers were in reality the lone brightspot in what became the worst decade in school history. With an overall record of 34-57, NU's winning percentage of .374 is at the bottom of the list. But it was also a decade that will forever be remembered for the school's first bowl trip and also for several Husker greats who survived the lean years.

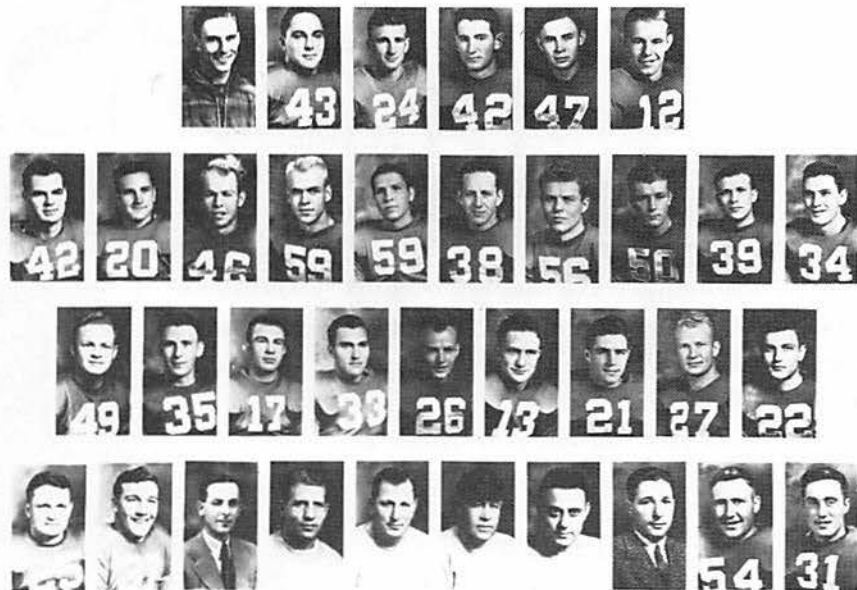

As it turned out, 1940 was the only winning season of the decade, but that team made the most of its success by earning a berth in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. It was only the third bowl trip ever for a Big Six Conference team and the 92,000 fans who attended still ranks as the largest crowd ever to see Nebraska play.

What they saw was a classic battle between Nebraska's vaunted power attack and the innovative T-formation of the Stanford Indians. The Huskers got on the board quickly on Vike Francis' two-yard run but Stanford countered quickly four plays later to tie the score. NU would score again in the second quarter but the Indians would answer back and take a lead they would not relinquish. A punt return for a touchdown in the third quarter would ice the game, 21-13. The loss aside, Nebraska's tradition had reached another plateau.

The success of the 1940 team was short-lived. Nebraska would finish seventh in the final 1940 AP poll but it wasn't until

The 1940 Nebraska football team was the first to earn a bowl bid by playing in the 1941 Rose Bowl.

1950 that the Huskers would again be included in the final rankings. And it wasn't until 24 years later that NU would capture a conference title, as Oklahoma and Bud Wilkinson won or shared four of the last five Big Six titles then went on to take every Big Seven championship through 1959.

Instability may have been the root of the Cornhuskers woes as they competed through World War II. Like the 1890s, coaches were hard to find and keep as seven men led the charge only to be met with defeat after defeat. Milestones were few and far between and some were forgettable yet remarkable. For example, a 6-0 loss to Missouri on Oct. 25, 1941, was the school's 100th loss but it occurred 52 years or 427 games later. Nebraska's grid-iron success was still proud as win No. 300 would come in 1942 with a 7-0 shutout of Oklahoma.

Three Huskers would earn All-America honors in the decade, including Warren Alfson and Forrest Behm in 1940. The 1949 Huskers managed a 4-5 record but produced one of the most popular players in Nebraska history in center Tom "Train Wreck" Novak, who became NU's 14th All-American. Following the season, Novak became the first of only six Huskers honored, as his jersey No. 60 was retired to become a part of Nebraska history. ■

Looking to put the lean years behind them, the Huskers and second-year head coach Bill Glassford moved into the 1950s with renewed hope and optimism. Unfortunately, things would be only slightly better in the win-loss column. However, Nebraska had its moments in the pre-Devaney Era.

The first season of the decade saw the Huskers ranked No. 17 in the final AP poll with a 6-2-1 record. In the following new head coach Bill Jennings, the 1957 Huskers' 14-7 victory over Kansas State was the lone win against nine losses in what remains as the worst season in NU history. Loss No. 200 would come a year later. But finding a silver lining is not as difficult as one might think.

It was the decade that gave Husker fans an exciting All-America halfback in the late Bobby Reynolds, whose performances are as impressive today as they were in 1950-52. His total of 1,342 yards rushing in 1950 made him the first Husker back to gain 1,000 yards in a single season, and still ranks as the fourth highest single-seanents. But because of a no-repeat rule, conference runner-up Nebraska made its first-ever appearance in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1, 1955. Duke bedeviled the Huskers, giving up only a short touchdown run by Don Comstock in a 34-7 rout.

Because of the Sooner reign and some trying times of its own, Nebraska would not make a return bowl trip in the decade. But the Huskers would have their moments in the Big Seven. The year was 1959, the final season before the conference expanded to eight teams. Oklahoma had not lost a conference game since 1947. That is until Oct. 31, 1959, when the 2-4 Huskers upset the No. 19 Sooners 25-21 in Lincoln. The Sooners were able to take yet another conference championship while NU finished sixth, but Husker pride was still intact.

The '55 Orange Bowl had been the Huskers' second bowl game ever and it was also their second appearance on national television. It was a year earlier, in a 20-12 loss to Oregon on Sept. 19, 1953, that NU made its debut in a broadcast from Memorial Stadium. In all, the young medium had not been kind in the early years, as Nebraska made five appearances on TV in the 1950s, all resulting in losses. But with more and more people across the country being introduced to the Big Red, Nebraska was now on the threshold of national prominence with the union of college football and television. In 103 network appearances, the Huskers are 66-37 on televised games. ■ years, NU would make only brief appearances and would not be included in a final poll until 1963, the second year under Bob Devaney. In all, Husker fans would brave through six losing seasons through the Fifties. The 39-58-3 record betters only the 1940s in the list of decades. Under son total. It would be more than 20 years before another NU back would join the exclusive club, when Jeff Kinney gained 1,037 yards in 1971.

1960-1969

It has been said that it's always darkest before the dawn. After nearly 20 years of sub-par performance, the 1960s brought the dawning of a new era in Nebraska football that has since made prospects brighter and brighter.

The 1960s had picked up where the Forties and Fifties had left off. Despite a 14-13 upset win over No. 4 Texas in the '60 season opener, another 4-6 record ensued along with a sixth-place finish in the new Big Eight Conference. The following year wasn't any better, but the 3-6-1 record stands as Nebraska's last losing season. Enter Bob Devaney.

It was 28 years ago that the head cowboy from the University of Wyoming rode into town with his staff aiming to change the ways of a program that had fallen on hard times. The Devaney Era began in 1962 and not a minute too soon for Husker fans, whose faith was reaching a collective limit. Wasting little time, Devaney's first Husker squad finished 9-2, was third in the Big Eight and earned a trip to the Gotham Bowl in New York against Miami. The exciting 36-34 win was Nebraska's first in a bowl and first in front of a national television audience. The nine wins were the most by an NU squad since the unbeaten Missouri. It was Devaney's first loss at NU but more importantly it was the first of what will be 168-straight sellouts through the 1989 season. It would be a few years later that Bob Dylan would make famous the anthem of the Sixties, "The times, they are a changin'," but at Nebraska they already were.

Devaney's second year brought even more success as the upstart Huskers finished 10-1, ranked sixth in the new United Press International poll and fifth in AP and won their first conference title since 1940 and the first of four in a row. A pair of 6-4 seasons in 1967 and 1968 did little to slow the Big Red machine as it headed into the final year of the decade. Milestones would bookend the beginning and ending of the 1969 season as game No. 700 would be the season opener against Southern Cal. The Sun Bowl bid, at season's end against Georgia, would be the first of an NCAA-record 20-straight bowl appearances through the 1989 Orange Bowl.

But the best was yet to come. ■

Huskers of 1902, which finished 9-0 under "Bummy" Booth.

It was also in 1962 that Nebraska's NCAA-record string of consecutive sellouts began when 36,501 packed Memorial Stadium on Nov. 3 for what turned out to be a 16-7 setback to

1970-1979

Eighty years after the first Nebraska football team took the field on Thanksgiving Day of 1890, the Big Red machine was now unstoppable as it entered the 1970s.

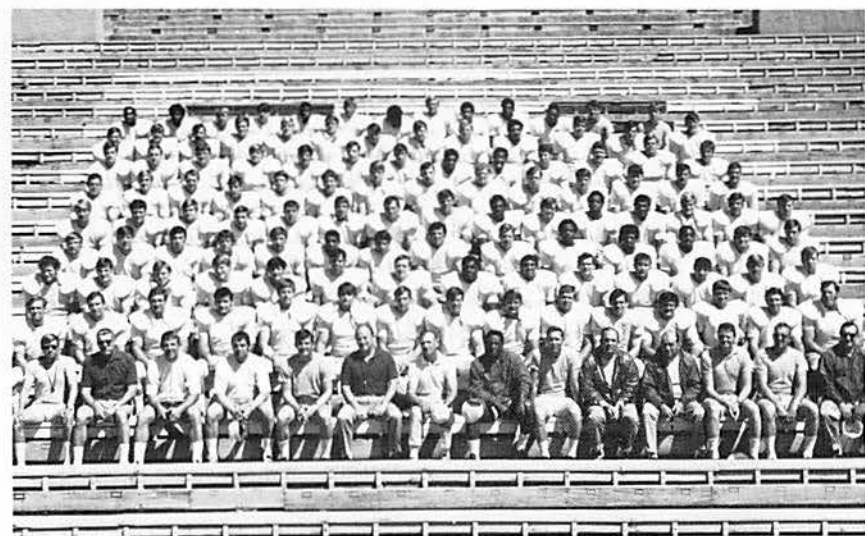

In eight previous seasons under head coach Bob Devaney, winning had become a way of life for Nebraska's players, coaches and fans. But the success most schools can only dream about became a Husker reality in the early 1970s.

The preseason No. 9 team according to AP in 1970, Nebraska reeled off a school-record 11 wins with one tie en route to the Big Eight title and a berth in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1, 1971. A day that began with NU ranked third in AP, ended when quarterback Jerry Tagge lunged over the goal line from the one-yard marker giving Nebraska a 17-12 win over Louisiana State and vaulting the Huskers into their first-ever national championship. At the time, UPI had given the top ranking to Texas in the final poll prior to bowl competition, though the Longhorns lost in the Cotton.

Any questions as to who the best team was in 1971 were quickly erased when the second-ranked Huskers defeated Oregon 34-7 in the season opener then moved into the top spot the following week. They never looked back. Nebraska rolled its way through 12 regular-season wins and captured the Big Eight title along the way with a thrilling 35-31 win over No. 2 Oklahoma in what has been called "The Game of the Century"—the greatest football game ever played. The Huskers made a return trip to the Orange Bowl with its second-straight national title on the line against coaching legend Paul "Bear" Bryant and his Alabama Crimson Tide. By the end of the game and the season, Nebraska had proven its superiority with 38-6 win and the national championship.

Led by six All-Americans, including Outland Trophy winner Larry Jacobson, it was a team that has been called by many the best college football team of all time.

An unbeaten streak of 32 games was snapped in the season opener of 1972, dropping preseason No. 1 Nebraska out of the top spot and out of contention for a third national title. The Huskers would still manage yet another Big Eight title while Johnny Rodgers won the Heisman Trophy and Rich Glover captured both the Outland and Lombardi awards.

The following season brought a changing of the guard as Devaney stepped aside from his coaching duties and turned the reins over to a former graduate assistant who has since become one of the most respected coaches in the nation. Continuing the winning tradition, the first season of the Tom Osborne Era at Nebraska began on Sept. 4, 1973, with a 40-13 thrashing of UCLA before a national television audience and ended with a 19-3 win over Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

The Huskers closed out the 1970s with a record of 98-20-4 for a winning percentage of .820, the best in school history. In addition, Osborne guided NU to the Big Eight title twice with seven more bowl appearances and top 10 finishes. In all, 22 Huskers would earn All-America honors, 14 under Osborne, who would take the University of Nebraska into the 1980s as one of the most respected and successful programs in all of college sports. ■

1980-1989

As the Huskers close out the first century of football at NU, they do so with a history of success and accomplishments that few if any schools can match. And in the decade of the 1980s, few if any have done it better.

Osborne-coached teams have already won 92 of 110 games in the decade (.836) and though they have yet to win a national championship, they have been in contention every year. In some cases, only a matter of inches has kept NU away from football history.

After a loss to eventual national champion Clemson in the 1982 Orange Bowl, Nebraska regrouped to make another run when the new season began in September of that year. Two wins set the stage for the second-ranked Huskers to meet No. 8 Penn State in the season's first road game on September 25. Though early in the season, a 27-24 loss amidst controversy on the Nittany Lions' winning touchdown drive would be the only blemish on a 12-1 record, thus forcing Husker fans to "wait 'til next year."

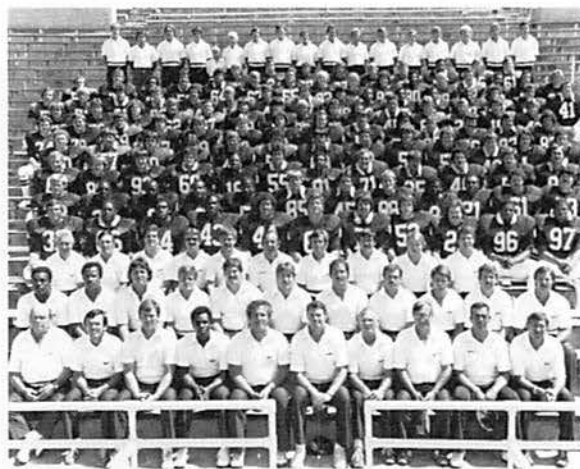

Next year would showcase one of the most dominant performances by a team in the history of college football. Comparisons to the '71 Huskers, the '24 Irish and the Army Cadets of '45 were inevitable and the 1983 Nebraska squad let it be known early that this was no ordinary team. In the inaugural Kickoff Classic on August 29, NU avenged the loss of a year ago by embarrassing defending national champion Penn State, 44-6. Scores of 84-13, 63-7, 69-19, 72-29 and 67-13 dubbed the Huskers' offense as "the Scoring Explosion" while leading the nation in scoring, rushing and total offense and owning the No. 1 ranking from the beginning of the season until Jan. 3, 1984. It the second Husker to win the Heisman, Dean Steinkuhler took home both the Outland and Lombardi and Irving Fryar became the top pick in the National Football League draft. But arguably the best of them all may well have been the man who nationally went unheralded. A young sophomore when he rescued NU from a 1-2 start in 1981, Turner Gill went on to lead the Huskers to a 28-2 record and three Big Eight titles as the starting quarterback and remains one of the most popular players ever to wear a Cornhusker uniform.

Two more conference titles have rested in Lincoln since then and still another milestone has been met, as a 48-17 win over Missouri in 1986 put Nebraska in league with only a handful of schools with 600 victories. Individually, the 18 All-Americans honored through 1988 has pushed the overall NU total to 66. Equally as impressive is the 34 Academic All-Americans produced at NU, including 16 in the current decade alone.

In the 27 years of the Devaney-Osborne Era, only two teams have won fewer than nine games, while four of the last five Husker squads have won 10. NU has made an NCAA-record 20 straight bowl appearances and finished in the nation's top ten for 19 consecutive seasons. The recent success of Husker teams is at the pinnacle of the 100-years of the Big Red tradition that is Nebraska football—a tradition that has become synonymous with college football. ■ was the morning after the most heartbreaking defeat in Nebraska history, as Miami, playing on its home field in the Orange Bowl, shocked NU 31-30. Only a fingertip deflection of a two-point conversion in the final seconds of the game kept Nebraska from football immortality.

It was in the early Eighties that some of the greatest stars in Nebraska history shone brightest. Like 1972, NU made an unprecedented second sweep of the major individual honors as Mike Rozier became

Maturity Has Wells Focused For Senior Season

By Bill Doleman

On a cold and rainy Saturday in Norman, Okla., Charles Thompson lay on the wet artificial turf, the victim of one of the most dominating defensive performances in Nebraska football history. Looming over him like a silver lining amidst the dark clouds overhead stood NU defensive tackle Kent Wells who had moments earlier grabbed the Sooner quarterback from behind for an eight-yard loss.

It was one of three tackles totaling 16 yards in losses for Wells, whose performance was indicative of the Husker effort as they wrapped up the 1988 Big Eight championship. Now, if he could only remember the scene which is so vivid to Husker fans.

"I was just too pumped up," Wells said of the OU game. "I didn't even remember anything from one play to the next until I saw it on film. I was hyperventilating every time I went up to the line, and I never got tired. Everyone was playing so well and we kept it up the entire game."

His performance that day may have been the best of his Husker career, which enters its final season this afternoon. Early on, Wells admits, it was a career that even through high school, saw more valleys than peaks, simply because his attitude was more nonchalant than dedicated.

"When I got too big to play midget football," he remembered, "I had to play ninth grade football and that was a disaster. The coach and I didn't get along so I never played. He told me I wasn't any good and that I would never amount to anything. The same thing happened to me my sophomore year on the (Lincoln East) reserve team."

It would seem a 260-pound 17-year-old as physically gifted as Wells would certainly amount to something on the football field. And he did. Heading into his junior prep season, Wells found himself in the starting lineup and the target of recruiters' affections, most notably from Nebraska.

But Kent Wells wasn't like other kids. Even though he grew up in Lincoln just a few miles from Memorial Stadium, he still had little interest in playing football let alone becoming a Cornhusker.

"None at all," he said, "I was more into screwing around than being serious. I never really thought about it. I never went to any Husker games when I was a kid. I don't know why. I think the first one I went to was when I was being recruited and I sat in the press box. That was pretty cool."

Call it a case of father knows best or say it was mother's intuition, because for his parents, "There is no place like Nebraska," and his decision to attend NU was made primarily at their advice. But for Kent, it wasn't an all-consuming passion and when he arrived on campus he was marching to his own tune.

And so were his new Husker teammates. Boys will be boys.

"We didn't get into trouble as much as we were causing trouble," said teammate Ray Valladao, a fellow 1985 recruit. "We were just doing wild stuff. I was from out of town and nobody knew me, they just knew Kent."

"So everytime trouble started," Wells added, "'Kent Wells! . . .,' you'd hear my name."

Times have changed since the fall of '85 and so has Wells. At times people may have wondered what Wells would amount to in a Husker uniform. Of course, Charles Thompson and anyone else who has felt the wrath of his 6-5, 280-pound frame has a pretty good idea and the reason according to Wells is simple.

"Maturity. You have to realize what it takes and that there is a future," he said. "When you're young you didn't know that or necessarily care. You can still have fun, but you've got to know your limitations and know when to say when."

"When you're younger you don't know if you're ever going to play or not. It's fun when you're playing and that makes it all worth it and I know I'm ready to play well."

Wells has been doing a lot of playing lately on the field and on the job, so to speak. It may not be his life's calling, but it was during the last semester earlier this year that he found something he enjoys doing. A human development major, he and teammate Mark Hagge teamed up for a lab assignment working with a group of children ranging in ages from three to five.

Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders couldn't escape the grip of Kent Wells, who enters his senior season as a candidate for All-America honors at defensive tackle.

"I like working with little kids," he said. "They knew we were from the University and that we were football players. It was a lot of fun seeing them happy and knowing you can do something for them."

Pro football is a definite possibility for Wells, but he said there's more to the future that he can now see.

"I see myself dealing with people who are like I was," he said. "When I was younger, I was like, 'Who cares, man? I'm going to have fun.' Now when you look back you say, 'That was stupid. What was I thinking?' It seems like everybody goes through trying to prove how tough they are when you really don't have to do that. Sometimes it just takes time to figure that out."

Lest people think Kent Wells has mellowed out too much, his style on the football field has changed little.

"Just tear 'em up. Mash 'em," he said, service with a smile.

About Northern Illinois University

Northern Illinois University, a state-assisted coeducational institution of approximately 24,000 on-campus and off-campus students, offers programs in the basic disciplines, the arts, and professions.

Founded in 1895 as the Northern Illinois State Normal School, the institution acquired university status in 1957. In deference to its original mission as a teachers college, Northern Illinois now ranks among the leading major universities in the country. It is governed by the Board of Regents, which also has jurisdiction over Illinois State University in Normal and Sangamon State University in Springfield.

Located in farm-rich DeKalb, the 460-acre main campus is situated in the path of one of the Midwest's booming growth areas—65 miles west of Chicago's Loop and 45 miles southeast of Rockford. The Lorado Taft Field campus, site of NIU's pioneer outdoor education program, is located 35 miles west of DeKalb in Oregon, Ill. Courses are also offered in 50 locations throughout northern Illinois.

To achieve its mission, the university's academic work is organized under the Colleges of Business, Education, Engineering and Engineering Technology, Liberal Arts and Sciences, Professional Studies, Visual and Performing Arts, and Law, in addition to the Graduate School and Continuing Education.

Northern Illinois University is first and foremost a center of teaching, learning, scholarship, research, and public service. It is also an enormous business enterprise that contributes significantly to the regional economy.

Using a conservative economic multiplier, each year the presence of NIU generates more than 12,300 jobs, $180 million in wages, and $344 million in goods and services. For every general revenue dollar invested by the State of Illinois, NIU "returns" more than four dollars to the regional economy.

Northern Illinois University's 460 main campus is located 65 miles west of Chicago

The institution emphasizes a commitment to provide an "education for life" through a strong liberal arts experience for all students. The faculty meets this challenge by combining teaching and research. Individual honors abound. NIU's history faculty includes four Guggenheim Fellows—rare outside the Ivy League. The National Science Foundation uses the Northern Illinois geography department as a national model and provides funding for the latest communications equipment. The publications record of NIU's faculty in applied mathematics ranked third nationally.

The university makes unique and lasting contributions to our shared culture. The NIU Philharmonic has received first place honors as the best student symphony orchestra in the nation every year since down beat magazine established the "deebee" award competition—a total of ten consecutive years. The NIU Jazz Ensemble, also a "dee bee" award winner, has toured Europe and played at the renowned North Sea and Montreaux Jazz Festivals in Holland and Switzerland.

On an annual basis, Northern Illinois University contributes about 3,600 graduates to the state's human capital resources. This included nearly 1,000 grads from the largest undergraduate business program in the state and fifth largest in the country. NIU graduates in accountancy, a program ranked in the nation's top 10, consistently boasts the U.S.A.'s highest pass rate on the CPA examination—70 percent in 1986 compared to the national rate of 19 percent.

Academics have always been an important part of the student-athlete's career at Nebraska. The Huskers have led the Big Eight in academic honors for athletes for many years and this year is no exception. Over 100 Husker athletes were named to the end-of-the-year Big Eight Honor Roll in 1988-89. To qualify, each letterperson must have posted a 3.0 grade point average during the 1988-89 year. Nebraska led the Big Eight with 113 named to the honor roll, followed by Iowa State with 89. The list included five who recorded straight A's (4.0 GPA) during the year including Mark Blazek (football), Lynne Frey (women's track), Kim Guthrie (women's track), Janet Kruse (volleyball) and Virginia Stahr (volleyball).

To qualify for first-team Academic All-Big Eight honors, a player must be a starter or an important reserve and post a 3.0 GPA. Five football players earned first-team honors and 51 other Huskers from 18 sports also proved that academics and athletics can go hand in hand.

The highest honor is to be named to the GTE Academic All-America team, where student-athletes across the nation compete for honors. To qualify, athletes must be a leading contributor to the team and post a 3.20 cumulative GPA. Nebraska had four first-team honorees, four second teamers and two who made the district team.

Congratulations to the following Husker athletes who have found success both in the classroom and in athletics.

100 Years of Nebraska Football (1890-1989)

Seven Historic Artistic Tributes....

Rearing Into Prominence (1916-1928)
Memorial Stadium Dedication

Husker Stack Rises (1929-1936)
Six Conference Champs in Eight Years

The Early Years (1890-1915)
Bugaters, Cordashers and Stick Rallies

You can share in the first 100 years of University of Nebraska football with a distinctive set of reproductions of seven historic paintings prepared by nationally renowned sports artist, Ted Watts.

The series of seven montage style paintings feature many of the Huskers' most noteworthy gridiron personalities and noteworthy events. The works commemorate a century of gridiron excellence from the first university team in 1890, known then as the "Old Gold Knights", up to Tom Osborne's outstanding teams of the 1980s.

The University has commissioned graphic tributes, printed from Watts' paintings. Full color prints are available to the public in a choice of two limited edition set sizes. The "Elite" edition is available in 100 sets of seven prints on 24"x 20" art print paper at a cost of $2,000.00 per set. The "Standard" edition is available in 1,000 sets of seven prints on 20"x 15" art print paper at a cost of $200.00 per set. All prints in both editions are hand-signed and numbered by the artist in the traditional manner.

In addition, the "Elite" edition prints featuring Bob Devaney and Tom Osborne are individually signed by the coaches.

You may order either or both sets by using the attached Art Print Order Form. Mail your order, along with the payment to: The University of Nebraska, P.O. Box 82848, Lincoln, Nebraska 68501-2848. Packaging and mailing costs are included in the cost.

"Legend Sheets"

A set of legend sheets accompanies each art print set. Each sheet contains a brief history of the era depicted in one of the paintings, an identification drawing of each personality or event depicted and a brief statistical review. Don Bryant has provided the written history.

Sports artist Ted Watts is profiled on a separate biography sheet. Each set of prints is bound in an attractive portfolio envelope.

One of the groups most instrumental in helping the University of Nebraska Athletic Department grow in the field of intercollegiate sports is the Nebraska Touchdown Club.

Contributions from TD Club members have enabled the Cornhuskers to build a fine grant-in-aid program and continued support from the Touchdown Club, and groups like the Husker Achievement Awards, the Extra Point Club, and the Cornhusker Beef Club, will insure that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will always hold a prominent place in the college sports world.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department salutes the many members of the Touchdown Club and takes this opportunity to say a sincere "Thank You."

SPEND LESS TIME ON BUSINESS TRIPS.

ENJOY the convenience of First Federal Lincoln.

The less time you have to spend managing your money, the more time you can spend enjoying it.

Which is precisely why First Federal Lincoln makes customer convenience a priority. We have more locations in the region than any other financial institution. So chances are, there's one right on your way to work. Right on your way to the store. Or right on your way home. In fact, we've gone out of our way to make sure you don't have to go out of yours.

If you'd like to enjoy banking, and not just tolerate it, come to the First Federal Lincoln Office nearest you. It won't take long.

Husker Wheel Club

Automobile dealers in Nebraska are contributing a large measure of help to the University of Nebraska athletic program through the loan of courtesy cars. Like other programs which are a part of the Cornhusker booster group activities, this project enables the Nebraska Athletic Department to make greater use of its funds.

These sports-minded dealers around the state have earned a debt of gratitude from the University of Nebraska Athletic Department. They are an important part of the "team" that includes players, coaches, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni, Husker Educational Award group, Touchdown Club, Extra Point Club, Beef Club and the courtesy car program.

The elements of Timberland design are solid brass eyelets, oil-impregnated leather, wind, water, earth and sky.

In the 20 years since our craftsmen hand-built the world's first guaranteed waterproof boot, Timberland® boots have raced across Alaska. Timberland shoes have taken Italy by storm. And Timberland apparel has traveled from the foothills of the Rockies to the canyons of Wall Street. Wherever men or women face the elements to reach an appointed place—be it the office or the outpost.

It has always been our belief that the elements that shape the earth itself, the very ground we walk on, should also shape the clothing we wear and the shoes in which we walk.

Whether our path leads to the highest peak in Colorado or the tallest skyscraper in Chicago. And whether we are from the West or East. Women or men.

These elements, quite simply, are wind, water, earth and sky. In alliance with the world's most enduring leathers, they are the elements that make up our entire line of boots, shoes and clothing.

Designed for today. And years from today.

Boots, shoes, clothing, wind, water, earth and sky.

Add it up yourself. Toshiba's SUPER TUBE™ TV with Super Carver Sonic Holography™ has the world's largest FST* picture tube.

Our new Hi Drive delivery system uses a dual path electron gun, versus the conventional single path gun. Our lenses are bigger.* And we increased their number to eight rather than four—the most any other picture tube maker uses.

What it all amounts to is a picture with 700 lines of resolution whose sharpness, brightness and contrast is unprecedented in a TV of any size.

But that's only half the equation. Toshiba's new Super Carver® System is the most advanced television sound system available. Carver Sonic Holography™ has been combined with a newly-developed Dipole

Spatial Sound™ speaker, which, when mounted behind the TV or placed behind the viewer, creates sound so real and intense, it will actually make the picture seem bigger.

Add to this some of the most advanced features ever developed for a TV, like remote-controlled swivel motors that allow the TV and two of its speakers to each turn 15 degrees left or right, full on-screen displays, 181-channel cable compatibility, and a complete A/V jack pack.

Why our 32" TV is greater than anyone else's 35."

Equally impressive are Toshiba's new full-size SK-F200 VHS camcorder and SV-F990 Super VHS VCR with multiple pro-edit features and digital special effects.

The sum total is a larger-than-life experience beyond calculation. You see, the competition claims to be ahead of us by inches. But, Toshiba's technology is ahead by miles.

TIPS ON SHOOTING SPORTS

LENSES FOR SPORTS PHOTOGRAPHY

Let's assume, for the sake of argument, that you're pretty serious about sports photography. If that's the case, you'll be using a 35mm single-lens reflex camera. In part, that's because SLRs are about the most sophisticated amateur cameras available. And in part, you'll choose an SLR because then you can use interchangeable lenses.

What's the big benefit? Well, suppose you're sitting underneath the backboard of a Lakers-Celtics showdown. The standard issue 50mm lens will do just fine as Larry Bird and Company cross the half-court line, but what do you do when the action is hot and heavy under the boards? If you've got a 28mm wide-angle lens in your bag, two twists of the wrist and a quick swap can put everyone in the picture. Or suppose you're at the Super Bowl, sitting in the stands. The 50mm lens will do a decent job on the bands at halftime, but if you want to fill a frame with a third-quarter tackle, you'd better have a 300mm telephoto handy.

Besides bringing distant action up close or cramming nearby action into a frame, auxiliary lenses have other benefits. Wide-angle lenses—24mm, 28mm, and 35mm—have an unusually deep depth of field. If you're concerned about getting the foreground and the background both in focus, but the light is bad and you need a fairly wide aperture, a wide-angle lens can make the shot possible. For the same reason, you can "zone" focus (focus in the middle of an area you want to be sharp) and know that a good deal of what's before the focal point—and even more that's behind the focal point—will be good and sharp.

Telephoto lenses, not surprisingly, have a shallow depth of field, so you can throw the background out of focus on a bright day by using a 200mm lens. And since telephotos also make objects look closer together, you can use them to achieve dramatic effects... like stacking the Bears' defense to make it look even more imposing than it really is.

One thing to remember about telephotos: they're very susceptible to vibration. If you're shooting at less than 1/500, use a tripod, a monopod, or rest the lens on something solid.

Zoom lenses offer the best of both worlds. They're now available in focal lengths that range from wide-angle to short telephoto (say 28mm-85mm), or from short telephoto to very long (100mm-300mm). You'll sacrifice an aperture stop or two compared to single focal length lenses, but you'll have unparalleled convenience and you'll save some cash, too. And you'll have the opportunity to experiment with zooming during exposure, which can produce some dramatic sports shots.

If you're going to be shooting from the stands, a telephoto, zoom or single length, is virtually a necessity. In such a location, you won't be able to get physically close enough to the action to get any kind of impact in your shots. I'd suggest you have at least a 200mm lens for such occasions... a 300mm would be even better. If you're working in tight quarters—like right behind the net in a hockey game or under the backboard at a roundball event—on the other hand, a wide-angle lens is worth its weight in gold.

You usually have the option of buying an accessory lens made by your camera's manufacturer, one that's part of your camera's "system," or buying a less expensive lens from an aftermarket manufacturer. The system lens is often optically better because it can be optimized for your specific camera. On the other hand, the aftermarket lens usually costs less. The choice is up to you, but my preference is the system lens if you can afford it. Spread out over the life of the lens, the price difference isn't that much.

NEBRASKA TROPHY WINNERS

MIKE ROZIER

Rozier capped an outstanding three-year career by becoming the Huskers' second Heisman Trophy winner after a phenomenal senior season that saw him rewrite the Husker rushing and scoring record book. He outdistanced Brigham Young quarterback Steve Young to win the award after piling up an NCAA-record 929 yards on the ground in the Huskers' final four regular season games. Rozier finished the 1983 season with 2,148 yards, the second highest in NCAA history at the time behind USC's Marcus Allen (2,342 on 403 carries in 1981). However, considering Rozier's NCAA season record of 7.8 yards per carry, he would have amassed 3,148 yards in '83 if he had carried the ball as often as Allen.

1983 Heisman Trophy

JOHNNY RODGERS

1972 Heisman Trophy

One of the most exciting players in the history of college football, Rodgers won the 38th annual Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding collegiate player in 1972. A two-time consensus All-America wingback, Rodgers became the Huskers' first Heisman winner as he outdistanced Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt and Husker teammate Rich Glover. The most dangerous player ever to wear the Cornhusker Scarlet and Cream, "Johnny the Jet" threatened to go all the way every time he touched the ball, as he averaged 15 yards per touch during his junior year, which still stands as an NCAA record. He also shares the NCAA record for the most punt returns for touchdowns in a career, seven.

Johnny Rodgers broke OU's back in the "Game of the Century."

LARRY JACOBSON

Nebraska's first Outland winner, Jacobson won the trophy as the defensive left tackle on the Huskers' 1971 national championship team. A Lombardi finalist, the 6-6, 247-pound native of Sioux Falls, S.D., gathered All-America and All-Big Eight honors during his senior campaign. Jacobson also excelled in the classroom and was the top vote-getter on the 1971 Academic All-America team.

RICH GLOVER

A two-time All-American, Glover capped an outstanding senior year by sweeping national honors in 1972, winning both the Outland Award and the Lombardi Trophy. Glover's Outland Award gave Nebraska the distinction of being the first school to win back-to-back Outlands, a feat that would be accomplished again a decade later by Huskers Dave Rimington and Dean Steinkuhler. The 6-1, 234-pound middle guard from Jersey City, N.J., also finished third in the 1972 Heisman balloting behind Husker teammate Johnny Rodgers and Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt.

DAVE RIMINGTON

Possibly the most decorated offensive lineman ever to play college football, Rimington became the first and only player to win back-to-back Outland Awards. As a junior in 1981 Rimington was named Big Eight Player of the Year by both wire services and won his first Outland, setting the stage for his senior year, which he capped by sweeping the 1982 Outland and Lombardi Trophies. A two-time consensus All-America center from Omaha, Neb., Rimington became the second Husker to sweep the lineman awards and his consecutive Outland honors brought Nebraska the distinction of being the only school to win back-to-back Outland Awards twice, as he duplicated Larry Jacobson (1971) and Rich Glover's (1972) feat by himself.

DEAN STEINKUHLER

Nebraska again boasted the nation's top lineman in 1983 as Dean Steinkuhler, a 6-3, 270-pound offensive guard from Burr, Neb., swept national honors by lugging home the Outland and Lombardi Trophies, giving Nebraska an unprecedented three straight Outlands and two straight Lombardis. With Steinkuhler's teammate Mike Rozier winning the Heisman, Nebraska is the only school to win the top three honors in a season, and the Huskers have done it twice, first turning the trick in 1972 when Johnny Rodgers won the Heisman and Rich Glover took home the Outland and Lombardi. ♦

For Nebraska and the Cream
Tho they go through many a battle

So in contest and in victory
We will wave them for the team
And 'twill stir a Cornhusker

Rah! Rah! Rah!
Go, Nebraska, pile up that score.
We've got to take this game—
We're out to win
We never give in.

Mission Possible

by Terry L. Beek

"We Are On A Mission" is written on the bulletin board behind Nebraska assistant volleyball coach John Cook's desk. Under these words is added . . . FINAL FOUR!

Back in 1986, the Nebraska volleyball team became the first non-West Coast squad to reach the finals of the NCAA championships. The Huskers lost that match to the University of Pacific, but the sweet taste of that competition has remained with seniors Virginia Stahr and Carla Baker. "We're hungry and we're going back."

No mission, especially one with such lofty goals, is without obstacles. The big roadblock for the pre-season seventh-ranked Huskers will be the schedule. Four of the teams picked above them in the American Volleyball Coaches Association's poll will be standing directly between the team and a trip to the Final Four. Stanford, Hawaii and Illinois, ranked second through fourth, will be battling Nebraska in the NU Coliseum, while sixth-ranked Texas hosts NU.

"We're to the point in our program where we are not particularly concerned with how many matches we win or lose, but how many are going to prepare us for the national tournament," said NU head coach Terry Pettit. "As to whether or not we are in position to challenge for the national title, will depend on if we stay healthy."

Terry Pettit
1988 AVCA Midwest
Coach-of-the-Year

All-American Virginia Stahr (14) and Janet Kruse set a block against a Texas setter during a 1988 match. The Huskers upset the eventual 1988 National Champions, losing the first two games but winning the next three.

Nebraska returns eight veterans, including four starters from last season's 28-5 team which captured the school's 13th-consecutive Big Eight Conference championship and made its seventh-straight appearance in the NCAA tournament. All-American middle-blocker Virginia Stahr will lead the charge by the Huskers, supported by first-team All-Big Eight Val Novak, second-team All-Big Eight Linda Barsness and honorable-mention All-Big Eight Carla Baker. Cris Hall and Janet Kruse, sophomores and part-time starters last season, return to give the Huskers one of their deepest teams ever and coach Pettit plenty of confidence.

"From an experience standpoint, I think we are in good shape. We have outstanding players at every position and we have athletes who can come off the bench and provide quality play. All 12 of our athletes are good enough to be on the court at any time, and that doesn't happen often. The position competition is healthy and it is not because of a lack of talent."

With the average height of over six-foot and an average vertical jump of 21.6 inches, this year's team has already jumped into the chase with matches against Drake and Iowa last week. This weekend, the Huskers are hosting the Runza Invitational, played Bowling Green last night and will face Houston at 5:15 p.m. today, following the football game. Football fans who show their football ticket stubs, will get in to the volleyball match for just one dollar. Regular price is $2.

Walt Johnson—not just an equipment manager

By Mike Babcock
Lincoln Journal-Star

On football Saturdays in the fall, Walt Johnson often is asked to vacate his office in the fieldhouse at the north end of Memorial Stadium.

Nebraska's assistant equipment manager plays the gracious host, which usually means turning over his lockerroom to visiting teams. Johnson provides the visitors with towels and any equipment they might have forgotten, shoulder pads, a helmet, "anything they need to get on the field," he says. Then, "they kind of take the place over."

He gets out of the way. "If they need something, they know where to find me," Johnson says.

The rest of the week, he's in charge of equipment for the freshman football team, the redshirts and any other players who can't be accommodated in the varsity lockerroom in the South Stadium.

Johnson, who grew up in Oswego, N.Y., is beginning his 14th season in the Nebraska athletic department. His first job was as an assistant groundskeeper.

His introduction to Nebraska occurred in 1956, when he was stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base. He came back to Lincoln following his discharge and worked briefly in the university's General Stores, then in 1971 returned to New York state for five years.

Over the years, "I've done a little of everything," from working on bombers and nuclear power plants to farming and building sprint cars, a result of his growing up near the Oswego Speedway.

According to his junior high school yearbook, Johnson was destined to race at the Indianapolis 500 Motor Speedway. "But I've never driven (race cars)," he says.

Johnson, whose daughter Vicki Cartwright is the Nebraska sports information office secretary, enjoys working with the young Cornhuskers and watching their careers unfold. He's one of the first people at the university with whom every football player has to learn to get along.

He can be intimidating. "They've got to wake up some time," Johnson says with a smile. "I've mellowed, though. At least, everybody seems to think so."

He laughs. "Well, not everybody," he adds.

Former players regularly look him up to say hello when they come back to visit. "This has been the most rewarding job I've had," says Johnson.

Because visiting teams use his lockerroom, Johnson sees a different side of Nebraska's opponents. For example, Iowa State's Cyclones, whom Nebraska has beaten the last 11 seasons, "always come in thinking they're going to win," he says. "I don't care who their coach is."

Oklahoma "wouldn't borrow anything from us," Johnson says. The Sooners "are great to work with, though. They're very businesslike. They just don't want us around."

The only time the visitors' lockerroom was damaged was when Brian Bosworth played for the Sooners. The Boz punched holes in the wall, according to Johnson.

Oklahoma paid for the repairs, without complaint, says Johnson.

Alabama, which came to Lincoln his first season in 1977, "traveled with the most stuff I've ever seen. Penn State was just about the same way. They brought in a semi, an 18-wheeler full of equipment."

New Mexico State, which came to Lincoln in 1982, was in sharp contrast to Alabama and Penn State. The Aggies "didn't even bring an equipment manager," Johnson says. In effect, he handled that job for the day.

Anything to be of help to the visitors.

Johnson is justifiably proud of his lockerroom, which used to house the Cornhusker varsity players. Until four or five years ago, visiting teams were relegated to cramped quarters in the southeast corner of the East Stadium.

Walt Johnson
Asst. Equipment Manager

Then, Nebraska's visiting lockerroom was one of the worst in the Big Eight Conference. Now, however, "if I could come into a place (for visitors) like we've got here, I'd think I'd died and gone to heaven," says Johnson.

"It's a pretty roomy place."

He doesn't mind making the visitors comfortable during their stay at Memorial Stadium. He just doesn't want them to be too comfortable. There is a limit to his hospitality.

Nebraska Centennial Special . . . Former Huskers "Remember When . . ."

Since the first game on Thanksgiving Day, 1890, hundreds and hundreds of names have provided a century full of memories for the people of the Cornhusker State. Some have passed on with their memories forever etched in the Nebraska legend, while others keep the spirit of the Big Red alive reminiscing their days in a Husker uniform. What follows today and in the coming weeks is a salute to the individual experiences and memories of the players. Those who have made Husker teams through the years, both the good and the not-so-good, uniquely special to all associated with the tradition and glory that is, was and will be Nebraska football.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS—Clifford "Tick" Ashburn (End, 1926-28) "My first experience with the University of Nebraska football team was when I was a freshman. The coach called for the backfield men to line up to his right. Half of those standing, moved to his right. Centers, guards and tackles were then called up in order. When they called for ends, there were only two of us left, so I decided end was the position to go out for . . . While at Nebraska, I was selected as all-conference end and was mentioned for All-American." Ashburn lives in Gering, Neb., with his wife Bea.

OKAY, WHODUNNIT?—Elmer Greenberg (Guard, 1928-30) "I played (in) 1928, 1929 and 1930. (In) these years we traveled by pullman train. Sometimes we spent two or three days in a hotel. On this particular Monday—after the Saturday game, Mr. Gish (athletic director) assembled the squad before practice to make an announcement. 'Someone from our group has taken two blankets from the pullman car, also four lamps are missing from the hotel.' He also said the person or persons could return these missing items by placing them in front of his office door during the night. No charges would be filed. On the following day, Tuesday, Mr. Gish called another meeting and made this announcement, 'This morning in front of my office door, I found 11 blankets and five lamps.' Everyone had a good laugh, including Mr. Gish. (I was not one of the guilty parties)." Greenberg and his wife, Sylvia, have three children and live in Omaha.

PRESEASON PURGATORY—Art Bauer (Quarterback/Guard, 1945, 48-50) "One of the greatest times but also the hardest I have ever worked was when we were at Curtis, Neb., in preseason drills. We were staying at the Curtis High gym and each night after practice (we) would go down to the VFW Club and play the slot machines. They were nickel machines and I was fortunate enough to hit the jackpot of $23. That was a lot of money at that time, especially when we would go on trips to play games. Curtis will always be remembered as a "hell hole." We started with 80 players and ended up with 43, but we were tougher than hell. It was a great experience, but I wouldn't want to do it again. (It was) a great bunch of football players. I will always cherish the good days of playing football and the many friends I had on the team. They were the greatest." Bauer and his wife, Norma Lea, have two daughters and live in Spokane, Wash.

JUST THE FACTS, MA'AM—Don Jordan (Fullback, 1959-61) "Darrel Cooper and I were hired as the first football summertime police officers. We were patrolling an alley and saw a door had been kicked in. I went in while Darrel went around front. We apprehended an armed criminal breaking into a safe. After getting the criminal back to jail, where he later confessed to many break ins, Darrel asked me if I pulled my gun. I remember telling him I didn't know. I was so scared I couldn't remember. After Capt. Butcher of (the Lincoln Police Department) interviewed the suspect, he found out I did a pretty good job of disarming a major criminal. I was so scared I couldn't furnish the details. I matured in a hurry." Jordan has two sons and lives in Brentwood, Tenn.

PRESEASON PAYOFF—Pat Salerno (End, 1958-61) "One of my most vivid memories concerns the opening game of the 1960 season. We played Texas in Austin, Tex. The Longhorns were favored (and ranked No. 4) but we pulled out a 14-13 victory. It was a very satisfying win since we had worked hard in fall camp and I felt I contributed to our victory with some pretty good blocks during the game." Salerno and his wife, Jeanne, have two sons and live in Omaha.

FIELD OF DREAMS—Steve Runty (Quarterback, 1969-73) "In 1973, UCLA entered Memorial Stadium as the favorite. This was Tom Osborne's first game as a head coach and my first start as a QB. The team was made up of a majority of in-state Nebraska players. We were really ready to play that day and beat UCLA, 40-13. I was fortunate enough to be picked the offensive player of the game. My most vivid memory of my playing career was after that game. I was in the middle of an interview on national TV and I looked over at the sidelines and there stood my father with tears running down his face. It was a very special moment . . . I will treasure this memory forever. I would not have gone to the University of Nebraska as a walk-on without his support and encouragement." Steve and Jeannie Runty live in Elkhorn, Neb., with their three children.

Harold Edgerton stops time in unique photographic studies

A collection of original photos by Dr. Harold E. Edgerton have become part of the permanent collection of the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL).

The original photographs were given to the art gallery by the UNL College of Engineering and Technology, which was the original recipient of the gift from Edgerton. The college, aided by a grant from the Nebraska Committee on the Humanities (NCH), has also produced a traveling exhibit of reproductions of the photographs which will be available for display in communities throughout Nebraska.

The original photographs were on display for a few days only during August, but will be shown for a longer period in the gallery at a later date.

The traveling exhibit's first run after presentation to the Sheldon is in the UNL Exhibit Building on the State Fair Grounds at the State Fair which ends Sunday (Sept. 10).

Edgerton's "Stopping Time" photographs are considered to be classics of modern art and technology. The photographs, using techniques for high speed photography developed by Edgerton, depict such phenomena as a bullet at the instant it explodes through an apple, a perfect coronet produced by a milkdrop splash of milk, and a golf swing in a processing of distinct exposures taken milliseconds apart.

Edgerton, a native of Aurora, Neb., and a 1925 graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Engineering, taught for many years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he earned both his M.S. and Ph.D. Degrees. He joined the MIT faculty in 1927.

Early in his career, he became known for his studies of high-speed photographic and stroboscopic techniques and their applications.

Over the years, Edgerton earned international recognition for his achievements in stroboscopy and ultra-high speed photography. He has also made significant contributions to underwater exploration through his designs of watertight cameras and strobes.

NCH provided a mini-grant to help prepare the traveling exhibit under its special "Science, Technology and the Human Condition" program.

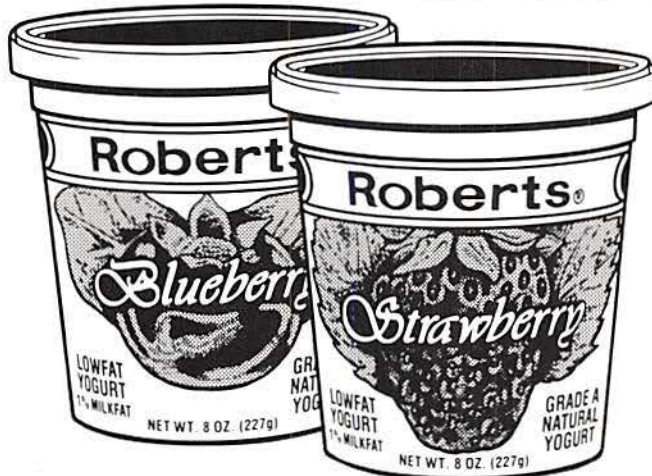

Three of the photographs donated to the Sheldon Gallery by Alumnus Harold Edgerton includes one capturing the moment a kicker's toe contacts a football, at left; the crown formed by the splash of a drop of milk, right, and "How to Make Applesauce at M.I.T.," which shows a .30 caliber bullet piercing an apple at 1,900 mph, below.
